Non-aggression Pact For All Is Urged at Geneva

S. Also Offers to Join Other Powers in "Substantial Reduction" of Navies and Regulation of All Sales of War Materials

Conference Opens Before Crowd

Indian Press and Associated Press

Geneva, May 29.—Norman H.

avis, United States ambassador-at-large, told the nations of the world to-day the United States is willing to join them in "a substantial and proportionate reduction of naval tonnage," and is likewise willing to join an international agreement regulating sales of war materials. Further,

he said, it was prepared to negotiate a universal pact of non-aggression.

His declarations were made at the opening of the International Disarmament Conference, attended by representatives of the leading powers.

His statement regarding naval reductions was anticipatory of the naval conference of 1935, which will seek to supplement the present

agreement by which Great Britain, the United States and Japan

are armed at sea approximately on a 5-3 ratio.

Dr. Davis announced the United States was willing to work out by international agreement an effective system for the regulation of manufacture and sale of arms and ammunition.

He urged the conference to work to the British draft of a convention, which, he said, was accepted by all nations, including many, as the basis for a future agreement. He added his hope that many would see its way clear to disarmament negotiations in the other powers.

He British draft allotted Germany

army of 200,000 men.

Menace in Northern Quebec and Ontario Mining Districts Is Lessened

Toronto, May 29.—Heavy rains in northern Quebec and lesser downfall

in northern Ontario to-day reduced the menace of brush fires sweeping over mining districts. At Malartic mines in Quebec, where fifty miners were encircled by flames yesterday,

the fires were completely extinguished and other points reported relief.

Property damage estimated at over

$200,000 was caused by the fires, which have made serious headway

since they broke out last Friday.

The Aldermac mine property, ten miles north of Rouyn, Que., was heavily damaged, while a school and a home in Desmarcours township as well as another school in Arifield village, Temiskaming County, also tell prey to the flames. Twenty fires were reported in Cadillac township and Bourlameque.

FIRE NEAR SUDBURY

In Ontario the danger spot was in the vicinity of Sudbury, where 300 men worked all day at two large blazes. A severe fire was also under way in Moffitt township along an eight-mile area, and another was out of control in Falconbridge township.

Provencher, Que., a village threatened Sunday with complete obliteration, appeared out of danger, the flames licking all about the settlement of 300 residents, but never getting a strong enough hold to cause any appreciable damage.

DROUGHT REDUCES CROP PROSPECTS

Associated Press

Chicago, May 29.—Drought and mounting temperatures threatened damage in the United States Middle

West to-day to late crops which had escaped previous ravages.

Wheat and other early crops already were beyond redemption in many sections, and now the heat and continued lack of rainfall are reported to be bringing peril to all crops.

No substantial rains were reported in the Middle West, except in a few places in the Dakotas and northern

Minnesota.

MAN FINED UNDER LAW 257 YEARS OLD

Waverfordwest, Wales, May 29.—

Because he violated a law passed

1677 against Sunday trading, a local dealer was fined the equivalent of $1.25 for selling a Sunday newspaper. Despite the defense's plea that about 17,000,000 newspapers are sold every Sunday in England and Wales, the magistrate held they are not necessities.

Fourth Arrest In Police Murder Case

Other of Three Indians Held at Merritt Now Also in Custody as Police Investigate Deaths of Constables Gisborne and Carr

Canadian Press

Merritt, B.C., May 29.—Alexander, brother of Enos and

Richardson George, Indians,

charged with the murder of Dominion Indian Department Constable Frank Gisborne and Provincial Constable Percy Carr, was in custody of police here to-day,

after he had been sought since the two policemen were slain last Wednesday night.

Fourth brother, Joseph, is in a poor condition in the hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull and is ready to be laid against a wall when his condition permits.

Another Indian is held as a witness.

George walked into Merritt

last night and was discovered by an Agent A. H. Barber sitting on the steps of the agent's home at 8 a.m. yesterday. He stated he had come from the Coldwater reserve, a distance away, on hearing the news of the slaying. He was turned over to the police.

Police reported to-day their investigations have indicated the two

Indians were slain on the Canford

reserve soon after their arrival

Council Asked to Determine Whether Or Not Public in Favor of Festivities

Appointment of a special person to determine the stand of the general public on the observance of Victoria Day here was yesterday recommended to the City Council by Alderman T. W.

C. Hawkins, chairman of the May 24 committee this year.

Alderman Hawkins reported on the festivities of the recent Victoria Day celebration, expressing the city's thanks to those who had assisted in organizing the various affairs.

He suggested the council adopt some means of determining whether or not Victoria wished to continue to observe that day on a large scale or to see if it wished to concentrate on July 1.

It would be a good idea, he thought, to name one to go into the matter to at least "start the ball rolling for next year."

He was supported by Alderman

James Adam on his stand.

QUINTUPLETS BORN IN ONTARIO BRING FARM HOME FAME

Five Girl Babies of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dionne, Living on Second Day, Surprise Medical Men in Canada and Abroad; Red Cross Asked to Aid Family

Canadian Press

Cowbell, Ont., May 29.—Red

Cross Association officials have been asked to aid Mr. and Mrs.

Olivia Dionne in taking care of the five baby girls born to the twenty-four-year-old Mrs. Dionne yesterday. Dr. A. B. Dafoe of Callander, the attending physician, has asked the association to provide help so the quintuplets,

the first ever born in Canada,

may have every chance of surviving.

After visiting the mother and children this morning, Dr. Dafoe said the babies were gaining strength.

They cried lustily through most of the night, which he said was a good sign. Both the mother and children, which were then more than thirty hours old, were doing

well, he could be expected, the physician said.

A nurse is attending the family,

the physician said. "The five little ones are huddled in one now, and this morning I found one crowded into a small space on one corner of the improvised bed."

has amazed medical authorities, who have besieged Dr. Dafoe with telephone calls seeking substantiation of newspaper reports. This morning at 3 o'clock an official of the International Medical Association in Chicago

asked for news of the children.

WHEAT PRICES STILL RISING

Gains at Winnipeg 1-2 to 3-4 Cent; Minneapolis Sees Dollar Wheat

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, May 29.—Climaxing a busy session of fluctuating prices,

wheat here closed to-day with net

gains of 1 1/2 to 3/4 of a cent above yesterday's advance of almost five cents.

Continuation of hot weather on the prairies, poor crop prospects in other countries and export sales of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat wiped out losses and scored the advance near the close. Only a slight recession in the dying minutes occurred from the day's high mark.

The close was 78 1/2 cents for the

May option, 79 1/2 for July and 81 1/2 to 81 3/4 cents for the October future. At the opening, gains were recorded.

ers, July wheat futures were posted called the physician and could hardly believe his statement the infants were growing stronger.

HISTORY RECALLED
Although he was encouraged by the condition of the children to-day, Dr. Dufosse said "there is a probability the children may die." He based his opinion on "histories of similar cases rather than on the health of the infants at present."

Dr. Dufosse revealed the babies were premature by one month. They are being fed through an eye-dropper with a mixture of milk, corn syrup and water. He is greatly encouraged by the fact the children are taking nourishment and gaining in strength and vitality hourly.

"What would you say would happen in the next three or four days?" he was asked.
BETTER THAN EXPECTED
"Oh, give me two weeks, or the time necessary to bring them to their normal birth time," he answered. "They are doing much better than I expected. I really thought they would die yesterday morning. This morning, however, I am impressed by the strength they showed and the fact their organs functioned normally. We can do a lot for them if we have the proper assistance."

MOTHER JOES
While a newspaper photographer clicked his camera, Mrs. Dionne laughed and joked in French with her nurse. She said she felt "oh, pretty good."

"Well, do you feel proud of yourself?" the father was asked.

"I'm the kind of fellow they should put in jail," he answered.

Mr. Dionne said he had been married since September 15, 1925, and his oldest boy, Ernest, is seven. He has not yet had time to think up the names for the new arrivals.

Asked the ages of the other children, the mother said the youngsters were Pauline, eleven months; Danielle, two years; Theresa, five; Rose, six, and Ernest.

FINANCIAL BURDEN
The father said he was glad to see all the baby girls looking so well, but admitted the financial burden was not going to be easy to bear. He was buying a farm and it is still heavily encumbered. He said he was having none too easy a time getting by now, and did not know exactly how he would manage to bring up his now large family as he would like to.

None of the children are going to school yet as it is three miles distant from the farm.

But the parents both have tried to teach the youngsters so they will not be backward when they do start.

The father pointed to six-year-old Rose, and said proudly that she could count to 100 without a mistake.

Dionne said he was ready to do his best for his family, but stressed that he weighs only 150 pounds. He is five feet eight inches tall. His wife is slightly shorter.

Mrs. Ben Lebell acted as nurse in attendance at the births. All five were born within half an hour, between 4.50 and 5 o'clock, between 11 a.m. and three arrived before the doctor got there.

Northland old-timers seeking a parallel for the Dionne births recalled Mrs. Isaac Wilson's case of quadruplets at Burks falls twenty-six years ago. All died within a week.

Corbell is nine miles south of North Bay, Ont.

VERY RARE

Chicago, May 29.—Birth of five children at once, such as occurred yesterday near Corbell, Ont., is so rare, medical historians say, that only thirty cases have been recorded in the last 500 years.

Dr. Morris Flahbel, editor of The Journal of the American Medical Association, added that in none of the cases on record had all the children lived more than fifty minutes.

"When the five girls born to Mrs. Olive Dionne lived longer than an hour or so," said Dr. Flahbel, "it was truly a rare and noteworthy event."

Medical history, he added, goes back about 500 years and covers all civilized countries.

OVERNIGHT RAIN

An overnight rain extinguished the advancing flames at the Malbroie mines. Thunder showers broke over the burning brush in northern Quebec and developed into a steady down-pour that brought relief to the stricken area.

The Malbroie mines are located in a deserted section. Communications were interrupted yesterday as the flames swept through the brush and encroached on the little settlement. During the evening the dismal sound of the mine whistle carried a plea for help, but the menace was widespread and other communities could not spare men.

"During the day the pressure receded to a discount of 25 in sympathy with the general dullness of the gilt-edged section, but the loan later recovered and closed at a discount of 3-16 of one cent."

AUTO MOVED

Present evidence in the hands of the police indicates the car was removed, probably by the slayers, from where it was stopped on the reserve by two constables. The driver evidently had trouble controlling it and it finally crashed into a tree about 150 yards beyond the entrance to the reserve. There, it is believed to have rested for at least an hour, which would account for the blood found on the ground. The blood had probably dripped through from the car. In the meantime, a tree was chopped down, presumably to extricate the car, after which the car was driven down the road to the point where it was pushed over the bank of the Nicola River, coming to rest against a tree.

Police believe the bodies were dragged from the car and thrown into the river.

The search for the body of Constable Pease was continued to-day. A patrol of the river bank was being maintained for thirty miles between the reserve and the confluence of the Nicola and the North Thompson.

A development which followed the arrival home yesterday of Staff-Sergeant Peasey has been the official investigation Bureau was the announcement that Constable Percy Carr did not carry a gun at the time of the murder, and that the only weapon which his companion, Warden Frank Glasborn, had was a .22 calibre revolver.

Police Peasey has been conferring with Commissioner J. H. McMullin, giving full details of the case. He was accompanied here by Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the Vancouver police, who has been discussing the case with Attorney-General Gordon Sloan and the Commissioner.

Reports From Greater Number of Firms Show Gain of 141,425 People at Work as Compared With May 1, 1933

Ottawa, May 29.—An increase of more than 141,000 was shown in the number employed on May 1, when reports from 8,391 firms showed 656,316 persons on their payrolls as compared with 7,996 reporting 714,891 persons working on May 1, 1933, according to a report issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The unadjusted index stood at 92.0, compared with 91.3 on April 1, and 77.5 on May 1, 1933.

The crude index on May 1 was the highest recorded in any month since December, 1931.

Search Made For Missing Calgarian

Calgary, May 29.—In poor health and worried over his music studies, Elgar Roberts, a two-year-old Calgarian musician and organist, has been missing from his home for a week, police revealed to-day. Mrs. Roberts, his wife, to-day asked the police to institute a search for the musician.

Answering the question, "Whither are we going?" Mr. Davis expressed the conviction the problem of disarmament was susceptible of a practical solution.

Two methods. He outlined two ways by which he believed security could be achieved. One was by an overwhelming superiority in armaments, coupled perhaps, with re-insurance in the form of alliances.

"The other way," he said, "is to increase the power of defence and decrease the power of attack. The United States government believes that by following the second way can the peace and progress of the world and the material security of each country be truly promoted."

ARMED REDUCTION

"The United States," Mr. Davis said, "has repeatedly stated in unequivocal terms its belief in the value of a drastic reduction in armaments and its willingness to join with other powers in bringing armaments down to a level to be determined by the needs of actual self-defence."

To carry out that policy President Roosevelt had authorized him to summarize this attitude and policy of the United States as follows:

"We are prepared to co-operate in every practicable way in efforts to secure a general disarmament agreement and thus to help promote the general peace and progress of the world."

"We are furthermore willing to connect with a general disarmament convention to negotiate a universal pact of non-aggression, and to join with other nations in conferring on international problems growing out of any treaties to which we are a party."

EUROPEAN AFFAIRS
"The United States will not, however, participate in European political negotiations and settlements, and will not make any commitment whatever to use its armed forces for the settlement of any dispute anywhere, in effect the policy of the United States is to keep out of European affairs in every possible way to discourage war."

CHAIRMAN'S APPEAL
The conference had been opened by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, president, with a strong earnest plea that the work should be brought to a successful end. "In view of the decisions already taken by the conference," said Mr. Henderson, "it would be unjustifiable to surrender to pessimism."

At the outset of this forenoon's sitting the committee decided it had devoted sufficient time to consideration of new monetary systems. Letters received suggesting the committee hear another witness, Harry H. Baillet-Latour, of Windsor, Ont., were not acted on.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, gave notice of several minor amendments clarifying and defining the powers of the board of the Bank of Canada, which will run the new institution. Notice of other amendments was given by G. G. Coote, U.F.A. Battle River.

When the committee rose last week, clause six of the new bill which creates Canada's central bank was under discussion. This clause deals with the powers of the governor and deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, and sets forth specifically those persons who are disqualified from holding either of these offices. Persons who are not British subjects, who are members of federal or provincial legislatures, or who are in the public service, are not eligible for the post of governor or deputy governor.

Empire Press Union In Session In London

Plans For Conference Next Year In South Africa Are Discussed

Canadian Press
London, May 28.—The year 1935, twenty-five years since the foundation of the Union of South Africa, will be of very special interest to visitors to that country, declared Major John Astor in his presidential address to-day at the meeting of the Empire Press Union here, referring to the invitation from the South African press to the union to hold its next conference in South Africa.

"Our kind hosts, in co-operation with the government of South Africa and newspapers of all political opinions, are arranging what cannot fail to be a most interesting programme," added Major Astor, who is chairman of The Times Publishing Company.

Twenty-six delegates will go from Britain, eight from Canada and others from various parts of the empire.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

In view of the fact it would be the first conference of the union in South Africa, affording an exceptional opportunity of gaining a general view of the country and closer understanding of its conditions and problems, declared Major Astor, it was of first importance the United Kingdom delegation should be fully representative and authoritative.

Major Astor, who was re-elected president of the Empire Press Union, paid tribute to the late Lord Burnham, distinguished newspaper proprietor and head of the Empire Press Union for many years. In this he was joined by Sir Stanley Reed, former editor of The Times of India, Bombay, and Sir Frederick Jones, chairman and general manager of Reuters.

Cecil Harmsworth was re-elected treasurer.

All quarantine stations along the boundary will be inspected before the party comes here about June 3 to complete its work here and on Vancouver Island.

The officials will attend a meeting of plant quarantine officers of the Pacific coast region at Salem, Ore., June 19.

SEVEN MEN SENTENCED

Prison Terms and Fines Imposed in California For Bond Forgeries

Associated Press

Los Angeles, May 29.—Federal Judge Harry Hollister to-day had sentenced seven men convicted of forging and circulating stolen Liberty bonds to terms ranging from six months to twenty-two years in prison.

E. E. Wiley, prominent Los Angeles corporation attorney, and Elgin S. Cole were each sentenced to serve twenty-two years at the McNeil Island penitentiary, near Tacoma, and fined $1,000. At the termination of their prison sentences, each will serve five years' probation.

Elmer S. Waggoner, now serving a county jail sentence on a state charge in connection with the discovery of $92,000 worth of stolen bonds in his possession on his arrival here by air from Oklahoma City, was sentenced to twelve years in federal prison, plus five years' probation to follow.

John Susnjak was given a sentence of eleven months in a federal road camp; Donald J. McGregor was fined $1,000 and put on five years' probation; Joseph B. Hagen was sentenced to six months in the Orange County jail and fined $300, and Fred Macomber was fined $500 and put on five years' probation.

Sentencing of H. M. Brazil was postponed a week on account of his lawyer's illness.

The seven men, government prosecutors asserted, were members of a ring which forged and disposed locally of bonds stolen by the "Pretty Boy" Floyd gang in bank robberies in Kansas, Missouri and other mid-western cities.

MANUSCRIPT BRINGS $2,600

London, May 29 (Canadian Press Cable).—The manuscript of "Vice Versa," first publication (1882) of the veteran novelist F. Sherriff, author of "Journey's End," and the lot was passed.

EMBASSY OFFICIAL'S AUTO IS ATTACKED

As the group smashed the windshield one of the men declared: "This is for Matthews!"

Toronto, May 29.—W. L. MacTavish, editor of The Winnipeg Tribune, to-day had attacked what he described as "pusy-footing Canadianism" in an address before the Association of Canadian Clubs in annual session here.

"I am in sympathy with the establishment of world peace," he said. "I am not antagonistic to the League of Nations, but the lecture campaign to Canadian clubs last winter, which was represented as a most successful campaign, was not so, in my view. It created antagonism and hostility that is still reverberating throughout the country."

He criticized addresses of Professor T. W. MacDermott of McGill University in support of the League of Nations.

"They are such as I do not wish to see presented to Canadian clubs," Mr. MacTavish said.

"The British Empire was pushed so far in the background that it could not be seen with the naked eye. We must keep our flag flying."

LEAGUE SPEECHES

Ottawa, May 29.—"My speeches before Canadian clubs were primarily concerned with the League of Nations and not the British Empire," said T. W. L. MacDermott, secretary of the League of Nations Society in Canada, commenting on criticism of his recent series of addresses heard yesterday at the annual meeting of the Association of Canadian Clubs in Toronto.

It was due to lack of time and not to any lack of loyalty to or attachment for the Empire that he did not dwell at greater length on the affairs of the Empire, he said. His object was to explain the aims of the League and naturally there was little opportunity to discuss the Empire at length.

For his part, he believed the best way of preserving the Empire was by enlarging and perfecting the machinery of the League of Nations.

TWO KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

Canadian Press

Hope, May 29.—Two men, Leonard Beatty and James Drysdale, both relief camp workers, were fatally injured in a motor truck accident on the Hope-Princeton trail yesterday evening. Eddie LaCasse to-day was in the Chilliwack Hospital with shoulder and chest injuries. Seven others received treatment in Hope for minor injuries. George Swane, the driver, alone escaped unscathed.

Beatty was killed instantly and Drysdale died later in the Chilliwack Hospital, his skull having been crushed.

The accident happened three miles east of Hope when the truck plunged backwards and eighty feet down an embankment.

The men were coming into Hope from Camp 210 and were climbing a grade when the driver attempted to shift gears. The engine stalled and the brakes failed to hold. The car started down the steep grade, and, before the men could get out, plunged over the embankment. A tree stopped the plume eighty feet down; otherwise all would have gone 400 feet down to almost certain death in the Coquihalla River.

NO RULING ON HEARING

Canadian Tariff Board Unable to Make Finding on British Textile Preference

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 29.—The first reference to the Tariff Board invoking Articles 10 and 11 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement has had an inconclusive result so far as any definite decision is concerned.

In a report tabled by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, and signed by Chairman G. H. Sedgewick, M. N. Campbell and C. P. Hebert, members of the board, it is set forth that, due to the difficulties attendant on ascertaining relative costs of production, no definite finding can be made on the application of British textile manufacturers for a wider margin of preference in the woolen schedules of the Canadian customs tariff.

The application was of special importance in view, not only of its being the first to be made under the provisions of the trade agreement, but also because it dealt specifically with one of the basic industries of the country.

LENGTHY HEARING

For several weeks last fall the board sat day after day, encircled by an imposing assembly of representative industrialists from both Canada and the United Kingdom.

From the great centres of the English woolen trade were H. B. Shackleton, George H. Wood, W. A. Croxall and Isaac Smith, of Bradford. Their brief embraced all of the important manufacturers in the north of England.

Opposing the application were Douglas Hallan, H. Barrett and J. D. Woods of the Canadian Woolen and Knit Goods Association; J. E. Walsh and J. B. K. Bristol of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; R. P. Sparks and T. W. Leair of the Canadian Association of Garment Manufacturers, and several others.

F. W. Field, senior British trade commissioner in Canada, was in close attendance at all the sessions.

TREATY CLAUSE

Chiefly the British industrialists based their request for a wider preference on Article 11 of the trade convention. This declared the Canadian tariff would be based on the principle that protective duties shall not exceed such a level as will give United Kingdom producers full opportunity of reasonable competition on the basis of relative cost of economical and efficient production.

It was contended the present tariff structure was not in keeping with the principle as laid down and that in order to enjoy the "opportunity of reasonable competition" the customs duties on British textiles and woolen yarns should be lowered.

The general argument of both sides was heard in public session, but the principal work of the board was in camera, when the confidential details of cost structures were analyzed.

"As a result of the present lack of conclusive evidence regarding the costing methods employed in Great Britain and Canada, it is not yet known," says the board's report, "to what extent the British and Canadian firms have included corresponding items in their overhead costs. In particular, the situation is not clear with regard to the inclusion of rent and interest on invested capital."

The board felt a complete check and verification of costs would require a thorough study of the records and costing methods used in both countries. This had not been done, although strong efforts had been made to secure the particulars required.

THE "ZEPHYR" FLOATS IN

THE PERFORMANCE OF THE ALL-steel streamlined train "Zephyr" of the Burlington Railroad Company, in which a distance of 1,015 miles was covered at an average speed of more than seventy-seven miles an hour, emphasizes the fact that competition by air and highway has forced a new era of land transportation on this continent. It also presages a radical departure from the time-honored conditions which have governed railroad operation, which, among all public utilities, has been among the last to be readjusted not only to the needs of the public but also to mechanical progress. No doubt many railroad men of the old school still view the new train with misgivings, and will be able to convince themselves that it is an ineffective experiment, but the record shows that the motor car had a similar reception in many quarters, and that the first railroad train was regarded with general scepticism.

The "Zephyr" easily beat the average speed of the Royal Scot over a long run, and for some distance attained the astonishing rate of 112 miles an hour. But while the matter of speed is important in itself, in view of the nature of the competition with which railroads are confronted, the most significant aspect of the new experiment lies in the cheapness of operation in comparison with the cost of operating the existing trains, with their heavy, cumbersome rolling-stock. Streamlined trains will make travel cheaper and therefore more available to the general public. There will be less cost per mile per passenger and the saving of time will effect important savings in the sleeping and dining cars. People will be able to cross the continent more cheaply by railroad than in their own motor cars.

A change in these conditions was inevitable if many of the railroad companies were to survive. Governments could not continue to advance subsidies and other forms of aid to systems whose operators themselves did not realize that they must adopt new methods. Ultra-conservatism must give way to radical innovation based upon sheer transportation exigencies and necessities in railroad operation as in everything else. Up to recent years the only comfortable travel on land was by the orthodox railroad, railroad mergers and monopolies could dictate the rates and conditions on which the public could travel, and the various systems became pawns in the stock market game; but the perfection of the motor car and the development of highways, followed by the progress of transportation by air, gave the traveling public other alternatives. The streamlined, all-steel train, utilizing the latest improvements in mechanical propulsion, many times faster than the older trains, and much cheaper to operate, appears to be an answer to the challenge of the times.

Undoubtedly this innovation will be costly for a time through the scrapping of present equipment, but in the long run it should enable the railroads to effect their own economic recovery from the increase of traffic arising out of cheaper cost to the public and shippers. Governments have done enough for the railroads; it is now up to the railroads to do for themselves what other utilities have had to do.

UNFRUITFUL LABORS

THE FIRST REFERENCE TO THE CANADIAN Tariff Board invoking Articles 10 and 11 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement has had an inconclusive result. A report tabled in the House sets forth that, due to the difficulties attendant upon ascertaining relative costs of production, no definite finding can be made on the application of British textile manufacturers for a wider margin of preference in the woolen schedules of the Canadian customs tariff. The following are the two articles involved:

Article 10—His Majesty's government in Canada undertake that protection by tariffs shall be afforded against United Kingdom products only to those industries which are reasonably assured of sound opportunities for success.

Article 11—His Majesty's government in Canada undertake that during the currency of this agreement the tariff shall be based on the principle that protective duties shall not exceed such a level as will give United Kingdom producers full opportunity of reasonable competition on the basis of the relative cost of economical and efficient production, provided that in the application of such principle special consideration shall be given to the case of industries not fully established.

Among those opposing the application made by the British industrialists were the Canadian Woolen and Knit Goods Association, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and the Canadian Association of Garment Manufacturers. Briefly put, the argument advanced by the British spokesman was that, since Article 11 of the trade treaty laid down the principle that United Kingdom manufacturers were to be permitted to compete on an equal basis in the Canadian market, the existing Canadian tariff on textiles was too high and did not allow of such competition.

It would appear from extracts from the report submitted by the Tariff Board that the chief obstacle to an effective analysis of the cost of manufacture was the difference of the costing systems of the two countries. The sum total of months of study and argument is no definite decision and, presumably, there the matter will rest. As the board's first big job it has been something of a fiasco.

WANTS STRONG GOVERNMENT

THE WORST THING THAT CAN HAPPEN to Saskatchewan as a result of the coming election is to find itself with a new Legislature in which no party will have a clear majority, says The Regina Leader-Post, because such a House would lead to log-rolling, ineffective government and administration.

Our contemporary quite properly points out that democracy has suffered most heavily in countries where government became ineffective because of the multiplicity of parties, lack of power in the hands of the administrators, where more attention had to be paid to political tactics than to the business of government. Democracy naturally has a better chance under a government upon which the people have conferred power and to which has been given the authority to govern.

The Leader-Post believes that the Liberals have by far the best choice for the people of Saskatchewan when they go to the polls on June 19. The party has cohesion, it is in the hands of men experienced in government, it has a record for economy in administration, it has a forward-looking but practical policy that will give steadiness to the whole province. Our contemporary then says:

"The Anderson government has lived its day and has left the province stagnant after increasing the public debt by $80,000,000. It would be folly to put these men back into office.

"The Farmer-Labor Party is strong on theories and promises but has little else to offer except its good intentions. It is exceedingly doubtful if Saskatchewan is ready for Socialism.

"On the other hand the record is there to show that the best days of Saskatchewan were those when the Liberals were in power.

"The Leader-Post has no illusions about the task ahead. What a prospect government in Saskatchewan may hope to do is to govern the province wisely in a sane, moderate way, while at the same time pushing with all its might to develop such national policies in Canada as will make it possible for Saskatchewan to continue to exist. Everyone knows that if Saskatchewan could find a market for all the wheat it can produce, at a price that will permit the farmers to make a small profit, ninety per cent of our troubles would disappear within a year.

"After all, that is the way out of our present plight. Markets for the farmer and a better price for what he has to sell will do more for Saskatchewan than all the theories and all the gallant speeches that will be made during the next month."

MICKEY LEADS THE WAY

A NEWS DISPATCH FROM GENEVA recently announced that the League of Nations has unfurled its brow long enough to give to Mr. Mickey Mouse's back an approving pat. Moreover, its Committee on Child Welfare is keenly in favor of an international treaty to permit Mickey's and other approved films duty-free privileges in countries that are members of the league.

For this, Mickey, whose rise to fame is well known, should register glee—perhaps not so much as a glance of favor from Minnie would bring to his countenance, but glee nevertheless. Certainly, now he is a made mouse. He has brought general esteem and approbation, if not dignity, to his profession. As officially as may be, he now holds the portfolio of chortles and cheer to the world.

But the recognition is not for Mickey alone, says The Rotarian monthly. He, after all, is but a symbol for the overlooked truth that a laugh is one of the touches that make all men kin, regardless of creed or color. Indeed, serious efforts now are being made to establish a university "chair of humor," for the purpose of placing humor alongside trade and science, music and art, as a means of popularizing goodwill and understanding among the nations.

MR. HEPBURN'S STATEMENT

THE LEADER OF THE PROVINCIAL Liberal forces of Ontario, Mr. Mitchell Hepburn, has issued a statement to the electors in which he appears to concentrate on the financial policy of the Ferguson and Henry governments, in office since the defeat of the Drury government in 1923.

Briefly put, the public debt when Mr. Ferguson took office was less than $350,000,000, which grew during the boom years ending March, 1930, to $476,000,000. It is now about $611,000,000, with a tax bill of $80,000,000 annually to be met by 3,500,000 people.

Mr. Hepburn naturally wants to know why, in the years between 1925 and 1930, the Conservative government did not do a much better financial job in the interests of the taxpayer. Still, Premier Henry maintains that his party is proud of the record, and contends, too, that the Ontario public is similarly proud of it.

Always the proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof. But in this case we may change the metaphor and say that when the electors go to the polls next month, Mr. Henry will know the exact spot to which he will have to alight.

Mr. Bennett has been asking Canadians to stay the of industries from this province to the Province of Quebec if Ontario goes ahead too rapidly with laws that would place Ontario employers under a handicap as compared with their eastern competitors.

FOR A FEDERAL ELECTION
Le Canada, Montreal

If we are asked what remedy we propose for the situation, we reply without hesitation: there must be a federal election in the near future. The Bennett government will soon be coming to the end of its fourth year, and the best tradition requires that federal governments appear to the people at this time. Furthermore, Mr. Bennett has called Parliament into session six times in four years.

NOTICE!

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 400 words. It positively will not print lengthy communications.

These letters must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed. Wherever possible, references will be carried out absolutely, as designed as much for the protection of our patient readers as for that of The Times.

DOGS AND CATS

To the Editor:—The extent to which humanitarian ideas grow and prevail in civilized society may be regarded as a measure of man's progress, intellectually and morally. Acts of cruelty may arise from ignorance. Children, I am sure, given a good example by parents, will nearly always respond to right teaching.

The shameful practice of discarding unwanted animals by dropping them out of cars naturally arouses disgust. Wherever possible witnesses of such acts of deliberate brutality should observe the number of the car and report same to the police.

Many thoughtless people are all too ready to take a kitten or puppy, without any sense of the responsibility involved. They all too often fail to realize any duty to the unfortunate creature. Among the commonest examples of cruelty that come under the writer's notice is that of keeping a dog constantly on the chain—a lifelong prisoner.

IRISH FREE STATE

To the Editor:—In your editorial comment on President DeValera's Saturday's Times, you seem to doubt his figures when he states that 3,000,000 people were in favor of a republic.

You state that the population of the Free State is only 3,000,000, and that of "Northern Ireland" 1,300,000. It is vitally important that the six counties in Ulster which are under a separate government.

While I do not dispute your figures as to population, you are evidently unaware of the fact that at least a third of the population of the six counties would vote themselves into the Free State to-morrow did they but have the opportunity—which under a gerrymandered electoral system they have not.

Mr. DeValera is quite correct in his estimate. At least 3,000,000 people in Ireland are disaffected.

LIFEBOT ASSOCIATION

To the Editor:—This is number thirteen of the series of letters which is being issued with the authority of the directors of the Vancouver Island Lifebot Association.

It is vitally important that the owners and users of shore boats should understand a little about the tides which run and eddy along the coast of Vancouver Island. It is difficult to deal with this subject in short letters, but after consulting the most reliable authorities an attempt will now be made to give a simple introduction to the subject. When writing this letter the most recent Canadian chart of "Race Rocks to Discovery Island" is in front of the writer, so that the descriptions are made at first hand.

The sea between Cadboro Point and the most northerly end of the Chain Islands is called on the chart Baynes Channel, and the tide at times runs from two to three knots. The sea between Gonzales Point and Discovery Island is split into two main parts by the Chain Islands. To the east of the Chain, are Hecate and Plummer Passages; while to the west are Mayor and Mount's Channels. Enterprise Channel is the narrowest of the north point of Trial Island and Punt Point, McNeill Bay and Bold Point. Mount Reef (dries three feet) lies on the north side of the eastern entrance of Enterprise Channel, and also about midway between Gonzales and Bold Points. That is to say, Mount Reef is due south of Oak Bay Golf Links and is the spot where several launches have come to grief through ignorance or carelessness. This reef can be easily cleared by taking the bearing of Punt Point in line with the north point of Small Trial Island. The tide through Enterprise Channel runs at two to three knots. The tide off Ripple Point on the south end of Large Trial Island, runs at from three to six knots at times with a high cross sea.

The tidal currents on the south and east of Race Rocks, round Rose-dale Rock run at from four to six knots, and all boats give these rocks a wide berth. Roughly speaking the main tidal stream lies in a straight line between Trial Islands and Race Rocks, but with a slight westerly curve round Constellation Bank. The twenty-fathom line runs west from Ripple Point to Clover Point, and then to about the same distance south of Brodie's Ledge, then to the same distance off Macaulay Point, the line then turn southwest towards Albert Head. This line gives the location of the long-tide channel. For instance, within two miles south of Clover Point there are three distinct currents at the same time.

This subject of tides will be continued in the next letter.

SAANICH-RELIEF
To the Editor:—May I, through your valuable paper, point out a few errors that appear in the manifesto sent out lately by the Saanich municipal council?

First, Error No. 1 is that the entire council approve all that has been done so far. That is not so. Error No. 2 is that the men who recently went on strike are nothing but a bunch of loafers. We were all genuine unemployed, red-blooded men who were not afraid to fight for food, etc., for our families. Error No. 3, if the discrimination is being shown. If that is so, why have eighteen men been picked out of the 370 on relief to bear the brunt of the economy drive? I know of one family of six who have to live on $22.50 per month. It takes nearly $5 per week to keep that family in flour and bread, meat, milk, butter and sugar alone, leaving $2.50 to cover all other expenses for a month and the odd days over the four weeks.

This party has written and protested this treatment, but not an answer does he get. If treating men like that is a sample of what this "council has done and is trying to do" then the sooner they quit the better, making room for men of more Christian character, who would rather see our children have at least the necessary things of life than grind them down to a bread and water level.

The quickest piece of repair work on record on the Pacific Coast was that done on the C.P.R. steamer Empress of China which arrived from the Orient this morning. On her last trip the steamer was aground in the inland sea, bucking her plates very badly. Temporary repairs were made at the time and she continued her voyage on this coast. On her return arrangements were made for her to dock quickly in order that she might lose no more time than was absolutely necessary. She was in the Kowloon Dock at Hongkong for seventeen days, and during that time over forty plates were replaced or strengthened, and the vessel given a general overhaul. Work was continued night and day, 2,500 men being employed in the work.

ELKS DOING FINE WORK

Dr. Wm. Spankie of Calgary Tells Members of Local Lodge of Accomplishments

"After this depression I am sure we will come out with a bigger name than any other fraternal organization in existence. In Canada," stated Dr. William Spankie of Calgary, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Fraternal Order of Elks, when addressing a gathering of local members of the order in the Elks' Hall yesterday evening.

Dr. Spankie congratulated the local members on their fine club quarters, and mentioned the spaciousness of the rooms. He thanked them for their kindness in welcoming him to Victoria and told how much he appreciated the entertainment that had been shown him. He touched in some detail on matters concerning Elksdom and in an eloquent appeal, urged the members to do everything within their power for the advancement of the ideals of the order.

"I urge you as members of the Order of Elks," Dr. Spankie said, "to give to your officers all your loyalty and support, so that they may be able to build up a great organization."

STANDS FOR TOLERANCE
"I ask you if we already have not got the greatest fraternal organization in Canada? If you take the best of Catholicism and the best of Protestantism and join them together, as our order has, doesn't it stand to reason that we have a better organization than either one or the other of these religions can produce? Our order stands for tolerance. We have Protestant, Jew and Catholic in our ranks."

The great community service that Elksdom is doing in isolated parts of the prairie provinces was briefly outlined by Dr. Spankie in his interesting address. The order had erected some halls at many points and there the residents of the various towns met and learned to know their neighbors and like them. The children were given entertainment in these halls and much goodwill was distributed, he said.

TOLD OF TRIP
Dr. Spankie briefly outlined his trip from Calgary. At Courtenay he had attended the B.C. Elks' Association convention where a larger number of delegates from British Columbia lodges had been in attendance, he said. In Vancouver he had been impressed by the large membership and the fine community service the members in that city were performing. He mentioned the large membership of the lodge in Calgary, and although that lodge had been very hard hit by the depression, it was coming out nicely.

Local Elks were urged by their Grand Exalted Ruler to do all in their power to form a great nation of Canada. Elksdom, he said, is helping to preserve a united Canada. Each and every member could do his part to help. "No house divided within itself can become great," the speaker stated. Robert Malcolm, Exalted Ruler of the Victoria Lodge, resided and introduced Dr. Spankie, and offered to him the sincere sympathy of local Elks in the passing of his father, Dr. William Spankie, Conservative member for Prince-Albert in the Ottawa House.

INSURANCE SAVED MANY

Thousands Relied on Policies During Years of Depression

"Throughout four years of stress, 1929-30-31-32, thousands of policyholders lost their savings through speculation, and became unemployed, resulting in many cases in desperate need of funds which were available from no other sources," stated J. H. Lithgow, in his annual address as president of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association. Under such circumstances, they reluctantly turned to their life insurance policies, to the funds which were theirs and which, in a world of sinking values, were still worth their full value. The fact that so many availed themselves of that privilege in order to meet the emergencies to which they were subjected, is a tribute to the wisdom of the policyholders who were in time in their history.

"The overcoming of the difficulties with which the institution has been faced, has served to enhance its reputation in the public mind, while on the part of those responsible for its conduct, there has been experienced a renewal of faith in the part which it plays in our economic life, a fresh appreciation of the wisdom of conservative courses of action, and a deepened sense of responsibility, if that were possible, to those whom we seek to serve."

C.C.F. Opposes Violent Change
Alteration of Social Structure Must Come Constitutionally, Says Leader

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation was seeking a change to socialism through constitutional methods only, declared Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the C.C.F. Opposition in the provincial legislature, in an address to Victoria clubs of the movement in the Macrae-Hall yesterday evening.

You may think your stomach is a very bad actor, but listen to this letter from a Chester, England, woman, who lived for months on one invalid food, and was in despair:

C.C.F. Opposes Violent Change
Alteration of Social Structure Must Come Constitutionally, Says Leader

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation was seeking a change to socialism through constitutional methods only, declared Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the C.C.F. Opposition in the provincial legislature, in an address to Victoria clubs of the movement in the Macrae-Hall yesterday evening.

Mr. Connell gave a plain intimation the party did not want those who advocated overthrow of the state by force. Agitation and strikes were not a part of the machinery or thought of the movement. Dictatorships, Fascism or any other form of militarized state were also beyond its pale.

The party had suffered detrimentally from talk of violence, ranging from moderate action to extreme like street fighting, the leader declared. It was only folly to talk in this fashion and as far as the parliamentary group was concerned a change in the social system could only be brought about because the majority of people wished it and expressed their wish through the constitutional method of the ballot boxes.

Mr. Connell outlined his recent speaking tour of British Columbia, declaring the C.C.F. was steadily gaining support. In the north, especially, an election to-day would cause the government no small surprise, he said. This work, to spread information among the voters, would be carried on continually, he explained.

W. E. Speed presided over the meeting.

PIONEER OF DUNCAN DIES

David Evans Succumbs on Eve of 91st Birthday; Came Here in 1862

Duncan, May 29.—David Evans, one of Duncan's pioneers, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. H. Truesdale, Sunday. The late Mr. Evans was born in Montgomeryshire, North Wales, in 1843 and would have celebrated his ninety-first birthday on June 16. He came to Canada in 1862 and after spending a short time in Victoria settled in Cowichan. CHIMP IS GUEST AT SOCIETY TEA

Buddy Entertains Matrons and Debutantes at Fete at Zoo

New York, May 29.—The annual garden party of the New York Zoological Society and the women's auxiliary was held at the Bronx Zoo. The lawn adjacent to the administration building was set with tables where refreshments were served. Many notable in social and scientific circles were present.

A feature of entertainment was the appearance of Buddy, a popular chimpanzee of the zoo, attended by his keeper, John Merritt, who taught the animal his many tricks, including eating with a knife and fork, and whistling. Buddy shook hands with some of the society matrons and debutantes and turned many somersaults.

Several guests visited the exhibition buildings and showed keen interest in the recent additions, a Malay wild dog and the two bear cubs from Tibet which were shipped to the zoo last winter by John T. Young, a young Chinese-American explorer in western China.

In the meantime Dr. W. Reid Blair, director of the New York Zoological park, was disclosing in his office an unusual offer made to him by a New York man, whose ambition was to capture the Loch Ness monster in Scotland for the zoo.

OFFERS $25,000 FOR CAPTURE

"This young man, whose identity I shall not divulge, came to me today and offered to catch this alleged sea monster," Dr. Blair said. "As he seemed very serious about the attempt, I said I would pay him $25,000 for this capture. The offer I made on conditions that the monster proved to be forty feet long and weighed two tons, as pictured by those who have viewed it, and that it was brought to New York alive and in good condition."

Dr. Blair expressed the belief the young adventurer's imagination had been fired by the success of the two youthful amateur zoologists, Lawrence T. E. Griswold of Quincy, Mass., and William H. Harkness Jr. of this city, both Harvard graduates, who recently returned from the Dutch East Indies with three giant lizards.

Junior Softball League Dance

The initial dance of the summer season, Dance Fantasia, which will be held at the Shrine Auditorium on Thursday, June 7, under the auspices of the Victoria Junior Softball League, assures an evening of enjoyable entertainment.

Dancing will commence at 9 o'clock to the strains of Reg. Wood's orchestra, with a select programme of the latest hits.

The evening's feature will be the Vancouver Island waits championship contest for the beautiful Foodie Dog Cafe Trophies. This contest will be judged on the merits of regulation waltzing and couples intending to enter are advised to practice the old-fashioned waltz. Competent judges have been secured for the difficult task of selecting the winners.

Added attractions of the evening are a moonbeam spot dance and an unusual novelty dance, both for a prize of $10.

The entire proceeds of this dance will be used to assist in sending the Victoria Junior Softball champions to compete in the B.C. finals at Vancouver.

ABDUCTION "TIP" IS TRACED DOWN

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—A purported plot to kidnap Maureen O'Sullivan, Irish film actress, came to a swift end yesterday when police arrested a man they identified as Colum McCaister, twenty-four, some twelve hours after the actress reported a man had told her she was going to be abducted.

McCaister, officials said, admitted he had concocted the story and gave a "tip" to the actress in the hope she would reward him for the information.

SPANKING IS NOT SATISFACTORY CURE FOR DISOBEDIENCE

To voice the opinion that spanking a child is no cure for misbehavior always arouses the most tremendous resentment in the mother who swears by it. She asks: "Just what do you suggest doing for a bad, disobedient, stubborn child when he won't obey you?" or "How can you punish a child who has deliberately disobeyed and knows it?"

Misbehavior may indicate a hundred things to unbiased eyes, though what one child does may be exactly like what some other child might do for entirely different reasons. The child may be disobedient and stubborn because he has no liberty of action. He may be rebellious out of nothingness, his whole life ordered all for his good, or, of course, his every act scheduled in advance and censored if it deviates from the approved rules.

To spank such a child for daring to be different—and differentness is inevitably misbehavior—would aggravate the whole situation. Things would be the same after spanking as before, with the exception of an added bitterness against the adult who prevents the child from displaying any independence of conduct, denying him the right to be a human being.

On the other hand, misbehavior may indicate management that is too lenient. The child can always do what he wants to do, and since freedom is without flavor, the child does increasingly dramatic things to enjoy the thrill of power.

A mother might spank him soundly and work a momentary improvement, but if her indulgence continued and leniency were still the order of the day, the spanking would be of only temporary benefit.

One might enumerate the instances in which children misbehave from lack of experience, from plain "forgetting," from fatigue, from a hundred other motives. An occasional spanking has never ruined any child, but if a mother spans once and it "works," she is forever sold on it as a means of punishment. But the evidence that spanking does no good, because it ignores all reasons for rebellion against authority, is far too overwhelming for anyone to ignore.

My leaflets, "An Analysis of Obedience and Punishment," and "What Shall the Parent Do Instead of Spank?" indicate the direction of maternal conduct. With your request for them, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this department.

STAGE SALARIES ARE REVEALED

New York, May 29.—Remembering the fabulous $5,000-a-week pay-cheques that the Cantors and Wynns used to draw from Ziegfeld, and the $500 wages for feature chorus girls—here are a few New-Deal figures: Helen Hayes and Fannie Brice are supposed to be the best-paid stars at the moment—$2,500 a week. Fine performers such as Clifton Webb, Walter Huston, Marilyn Miller and George M. Cohan are guaranteed only about $1,000 a week, but get a percentage from the box office. The most prosperous principals in "Ballet Beware," a smash hit but with no big names, receive only about $200 a week. A pretty good character actor in a secondary role may draw only $75 on Saturday nights. There is a $30 minimum wage for chorus girls, but most of them are paid something over the scale.

SAYS HITLER SAVED WORLD

Brig.-Gen. R. Blakeney Tells of Plot to Overthrow Nazis
For Bolshevism

"Hitler will" bared a gigantic plot in Berlin intended to overthrow Nazi control and establish Bolshevism, an audience of nearly 1,500 persons were told yesterday evening by Brigadier-General Robert Blakeney at the Chamber of Commerce, speaking on "The World Upheaval and Its Causes." The meeting was sponsored by the British-Israel World Federation.

Information regarding the plot laid in Berlin was given to him first and by one of Hitler's right hand men, the speaker said.

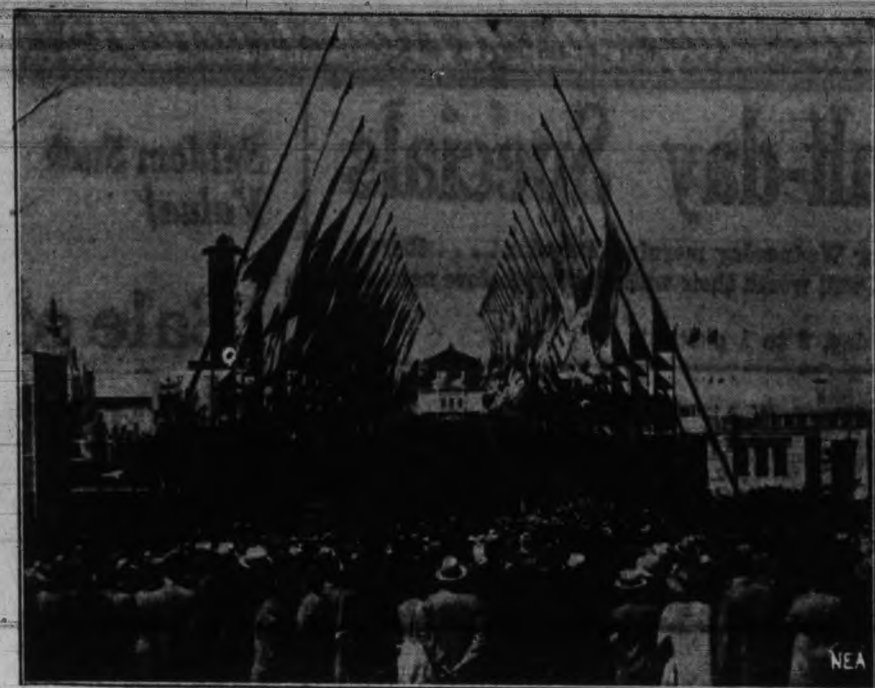

The upheaval of the world the speaker attributed to Jewish money lenders of the world who controlled everything. The constant fight which the Christian Jews were waging against this influence would win out ultimately, but it was now being suppressed by the overwhelming forces of their opponents.

SAVED WORLD

Dealing with this plot which he claimed would have resulted in the possible destruction of the civilized world, the speaker outlined the plans made for it, as discovered in the nick of time by Hitler's investigators.

Preparations had been made to render Berlin without light and telephone communication at a zero hour and have the city invaded in four sections to bring about the overthrow of the Nazis and establish Bolshevism. Everyone who would have attempted to give orders would have been seized and in the darkness without communication, the authorities would have been powerless, he stated.

The speaker delved far into the history of the land of the Jews, explaining these radicals had first been armed among those who practiced psychic science and later usury. These had gradually developed into the money lenders and gained financial control to such an extent that they had come to control world powers. Nations were powerless and their mercy, he stated in urging

RELIEF OFFICE COSTS GIVEN

New Premises Put in Order
For But $560, Alderman
Hawkins Reports

While members of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association had stated renovation in the city's new relief office would run into thousands of dollars and members of the relief committee had originally estimated an expenditure of approximately $1,200 for the work, it had actually been completed for but $560, Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, chairman of the relief committee, informed the City Council yesterday evening.

Of that amount the sum of $160 had been expended in materials required for repairs and the remaining $400 for work, he stated. That sum equalled but six months rent in the old premises. He recommended that a copy of his report be sent to the Ratepayers' Association.

City Approves Deal in Bonds

Sale of $18,631 worth of Canadian Northern Railway 3½ per cent bonds, due in 1958, at $93.50, and purchase of $1,000 worth of City of Victoria 5½ per cent bonds, due January 1944, at $96.25, to yield over 6 per cent, was recommended to the City Council by the finance committee yesterday evening. The move was endorsed.

The council also approved a grant of $100 to the civic employees' picnic at Goldstream Falls on July 21 and ratified as permanent the probationary appointments of P. Joseph as telephone operator and Duncan K. Kennedy as building inspector.

Purchase of a $400 truck for the electric light department from J. G. Godfrey was also approved.

DREDGING FOR BLOEDEL MILL

B.C. Bridge and Dredging
Co. Gets Preliminary Contract at Port Alberni

Port Alberni, May 29.—Contract has been placed with the B.C. Bridge and Dredging Company Limited for the dredging and reclamation work at the site of the proposed new mill here for Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Limited.

The work will involve an expenditure of about $40,000.

The company's dredge is at the site and work is expected to commence June 1. A minimum of 200,000 yards of material is to be moved, and the contract is expected to take about six weeks to complete.

W. G. Swan is engineer on the new Alberni development and J. H. Brown is the mill architect.

Following dredging and reclamation operations, Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Limited will erect a $60,000 wharf of cross-timber construction.

The petition from Port Alberni property owners in connection with a fixed assessment for the new mill was forwarded to Hon. George S. Pearson at Victoria at the beginning of the week.

It was signed by upwards of 370 petitioners, including Mayor D. W. Warnock, and members of the city council.

Requests For Lower Im-

Pandora Avenue Heard

A petition from residents of Pandora Avenue, seeking a downward revision of assessments for local improvement taxes was referred to the special local improvements commission, composed of James Forman and A. R. Wolfenden, by the City Council at its meeting yesterday evening.

The action taken by the city board gives the commission the right to set on the matter, that body having power to do so by-law. It also virtually assures the property owners of a revision, in view of the sympathetic hearing given the petition, presented by Moore and Wilson, barristers for the taxpayers.

Alderman Robert Dewar, speaking on the matter, voiced his appreciation of the point taken by the Pandora residents.

The petitioners pointed out, through their legal representatives, the fact

REPORTS ON CONVENTION

Alderman John A. Worthington Gives Brief on Eugene, Oregon, Meeting

Reporting on the recent convention of waterworks engineers in Eugene, Oregon, Alderman John A. Worthington, chairman of the city parks board, and G. M. Irwin, water commissioner, delegates to the meeting, told the council statements by engineers with actual experience at the convention were to the effect that legislative operations on waterworks apparently had not had detrimental effects on water supply.

That statement was the highlight of the report submitted on the meeting.

In another report, Alderman Worthington outlined various methods of garbage disposal used in Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, referring to tip and incinerator systems.

"I've come to the conclusion Victoria has a very thorough and inexpensive way of caring for its garbage," Alderman Walter Luney remarked upon hearing the report.

SUGGEST RELIEF HEAD FOR BOARD

Recommendation was made to the City Council yesterday evening by Alderman J. D. Hunter, chairman of the city health committee, that E. G. Snowden, city relief officer, be put forward as the city's representative on the board of the Children's Aid Society. The suggestion was supported by the council.

Alderman Hunter noted the provincial government had sustained the society in its stand to the effect that it need not include on its directorate a member of the city council. Subsequently, Alderman Hunter added, one of the members of the directing board had announced his intention of retiring. He suggested the city relief officer be put forward to fill the vacancy for the next six months.

After that date, he said, the constitution of the Children's Aid Society would be revised to include representation on the directorate of a delegate named by the city.

Council to Meet Every Two Weeks

Starting at the beginning of next month, the city council will meet every two weeks unless urgent business causes the chairman to convene the city body before that date.

A resolution to that effect placed before the city council by Alderman J. D. Hunter yesterday evening was endorsed.

LEADERSHIP STORY DENIED

Ottawa, May 29.—Denial was made today by Hon. W. D. Euler, M.P. for North Waterloo, Ont., and former Minister of National Revenue, that he had been offered the Liberal leadership in Ontario to take the place of Mitchell F. Hepburn. In a speech yesterday evening in Hamilton Premier George S. Henry intimated Mr. Euler had been offered the leadership and refused it.

"There is nothing in it," said Mr. Euler. "I am supporting Mitchell Hepburn."

MILLION DOLLAR LAUNDRY RESEARCH PLANT

American Institute of Laundering, controlled by laundrymen of United States and Canada for research work on laundry and textile problems.

FINE LAUNDRY HOME BOASTED

American Institute of Laundering in Illinois Is $1,000,000 Investment

The laundrymen of the Pacific Northwest will open their annual convention in Victoria Friday. It is not generally known that the Laundrymen's National Association of the United States and Canada has one of the finest research institutes of any trade organization in the world. It has been far in advance of most research organizations and is a model respected and admired by industry in general. Over ten years ago the laundrymen of North America established the American Institute of Laundering, located in the city of Joliet, Illinois. Approximately $1,000,000 has been invested in the institute and it is estimated that the women of America have been saved many millions of dollars in the conservation of textiles and the gradual increase in the manufacturers' standard of fabrics.

STAFF OF EXPERTS
With a staff of trained textile experts, research engineers and chemists and a large laboratory comprising every known scientific apparatus for textile experimentation and testing, the institute is adequately equipped to serve not only their own industry but also the textile trade. Most of the reputable manufacturers of textiles are actively co-operating with the American Institute of Laundering and the standard of many lines of textiles has been raised.

Many manufacturers of reliable textiles are to-day availing themselves of the Laundry Tested Seal on their merchandise. One of the largest makers of cotton goods in the United States with a well-known trade name that has been nationally advertised across America has this to say about laundrymen in its advertising: "The modern laundry is a miracle of good organization, good management, good machinery and good sense. Nothing used by a good laundry is injurious to good, honestly woven, honestly dyed fabrics."

Laundries to-day, through their research organization, know as much about textiles as the manufacturers and are not taking the blame for cheap and defective manufacturing methods as was the case a few years ago. Defects caused by cheap raw materials, poor weaving or spinning, bad machinery, careless inspection, are being detected by an alert laundry organization. The public is thereby protected and will gradually come to look upon their laundryman as a guide and counsellor in the buying of honest textiles.

C.C.F. PREPARES FOR CONVENTION

Calgary, May 29.—It was understood here to-day that July 17 had been selected as the date for the national convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation in Winnipeg. Elmer E. Roper, secretary of the Alberta branch of the C.C.F., said July 17 was "pretty certain" to be the date for the first annual convention.

U.S. DOLLAR IN PARIS

Paris, May 29 (Associated Press).—The United States dollar lost ½ centime on the foreign exchange market to-day closing at 15.175 francs (5.6 cents to the franc) compared to last night's close of 15.125 francs (5.395 cents). The opening to-day was at 15.145 francs (5.602 cents).

SALT SPRING SHEEP SHOW

Special Excursions to the Islands For Second Annual Event Monday

Ganges, May 29.—Salt Spring Island Sheep Breeders' Association will hold its second annual sheep and market lamb show here on Monday, June 4.

It is anticipated that the show will triple that of last year in number of exhibits, the number of classes having been doubled. The prize list is varied and extensive. There will be a large number of sheep and spring lambs on exhibition, and in the handicraft classes there will be a fine display of homespun and woolen goods. Other attractions will be a weaving demonstration, hand spinning contest, sheep judging, hand shearing and machine shearing contests, sheep dog trials, guessing competition for weight of a live fat lamb, tug-of-war and a football game. The C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary will leave Vancouver at 9 a.m., calling at Galiano, Mayne and Pender Islands en route, returning at 6 p.m. The ferry Cy Peck, running from Swartz Bay, Saanich Peninsula, to Salt Spring Island, has arranged for special trips to accommodate Victoria and Vancouver Island visitors. There are no entrance or other charges at the exhibition.

WHEAT DISCUSSION POSTPONED

London, May 29 (Associated Press).—The meeting of the international wheat committee scheduled for yesterday was postponed until next month in order to give more time for preliminary work on alternative plans for the abandoned minimum price scheme. A date will be set later.

SOOKE

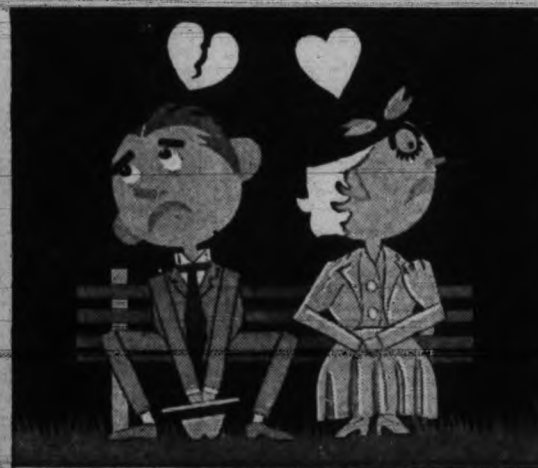

A gingham dance will be held in Charter's Hall on Saturday, June 2, under the auspices of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute.

Mrs. Kenneth Cairns entertained on May 26 in honor of the eighth birthday of her son, Stanley. Those present were Wilfrid Strong, Dick Cairns, Leonard and Stanley Jones and Cicely Charters. Mrs. F. Norton of Deer Harbor, Wash., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Fox and small son of Ansox are visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. Murray. Mrs. J. Strong, with her son and daughter spent the week-end Sooke as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Strong. Miss Mae Loughney of Victoria was also a week-end visitor. Mr. and Mrs. Strong. Alfred Burge has left for England.

Prince Albert, May 29 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Lawrence Clarke, widow of Hon. Lawrence Clarke, at one time chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company here and sister of late Justice James McKay, is dead in San Francisco, Calif., at the age of eighty-three, according to word reaching here to-day. Mrs. Clarke was born Fort Pelly district in 1851, and educated in Winnipeg. Mr. Clarke was member of the old northwest court.

Rifle Shooting

The Garrison and Canadian Scottish tied in the shoot for the Gordon Trophy on Saturday, at Hauls Range, but the Garrison have the pleasure of winning the silver cup for a year as they had the better score total at 600 yards. The Garrison and Scottish had grand totals of 1,075 and the Fifth Regiment 1,063. This is the second year in succession and the only two in the history of the cup that there has been a tie for first place. Last year the Scottish and the Garrison tied and the Scottish won with the best total at 600 yards, with the Fifth Regiment only one point behind the leaders. The highest individual score in the match was made by S.-M. Read of the Garrison with 145 out of 150, having a possible at 500 yards.

The weekly shoot on Saturday, which was shot at the same time as the team match, was topped by Miss Gwen Spencer of the Fifth Regiment, Petty Officer J. A. Betts of the Royal Canadian Navy, and L.-Cpl. H. Thorburn of the Scottish, all having scores of 97 out of 100.

"LOVE BIRDS" AT CAPITOL

New Comedy Picture Stars Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in Leading Roles

"Love Birds" is the funniest picture in which Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts have ever appeared together. It opened an engagement at the Capitol Theatre to-day. The tricky story is so filled with hilarious situations, and witty dialogue, and the stars enter into the spirit of the thing with such a will that the result is nothing less than a sure cure for the blues.

Imagine these two worthies, who detect the sight of each other, discovering that they have both bought the same ranch in California! And imagine their consternation when they discover that they are stranded on the property in the centre of a great sandy desert, miles off the traveled roads, and with neither water nor another dwelling in sight!

How a blow to Summerville's jaw brings about a gold rush of wild-eyed prospectors to the very ranch in which both have sunk their savings is only one of the uproariously funny incidents in the story. And the desert setting in which much of the story takes place furnishes a background of real charm and beauty, something rare in comedies.

William A. Seiter in "Love Birds" has turned out a comedy gem. Also being shown on the same programme is Doris Kenyon in "Counsellor at Law."

TIME TO BUY STRAWBERRIES

Now Selling at Four and Five Boxes For Twenty-five Cents

Strawberries are now selling cheaper than any fruit on the market. Four baskets can be bought for twenty-five cents.

On the wholesale market the fruit is priced at $1.20 a crate for No. 1 and $1 for No. 2. The latter, which are excellent fruit, but not quite up to the No. 1's in appearance and size, can be obtained retail for five cents
a basket.

There are a few baskets of unusually high grade berries on the market at three for twenty-five cents.
The quality of this year's crop is exceptional. The berries being offered at four baskets for twenty-five cents run from 75 to 80 per cent British Sovereign grade, which is the highest attainable.

The exceptionally low prices have been made possible by co-operation between the wholesalers and the growers. Handling charges on wholesale row have been considerably cut down.

Every housewife who takes an interest in canning fruit should start in on the berries at this time. It is very unlikely that prices will fall further, and the quality is at present at its highest peak.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES ARE SLASHED

Liquor Control Board Passes on Forty-cent a Dozen Reduction Here

General reduction in ale prices throughout the province were approved by the provincial cabinet to-day, following a cut in the prices given by the breweries.

The new scale makes a set figure of $2 a dozen for pints of ale all throughout the province. This means a reduction of 40¢ a dozen. In other parts of the province the cut is along similar lines.
At the same time beer and stout prices have been reduced. Several interior towns have been reduced from 10¢ to 8¢ a dozen as the result of an arrangement under which breweries absorb the freight charges. This brings the price down to 8¢ a dozen, the same as on the coast.

LYING SHOWS IMAGINATION

Budding Actors and Playwrights Usually Liars, Says A. M. D. Fairbairn

It was not unusual for a great actor or playwright to have had as a youth the reputation of being a liar, said A. M. D. Fairbairn, in a talk on "Drama" before members of the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel today.

Young people of this type did not have the same psychology as adults, he continued. They did not tell lies for their own sake, but because they were bored and dull and uninteresting. Because of the dull and uninteresting, they tended to exaggerate what they heard or saw and were thus called liars—wrongly so, in the opinion of the speaker.

To illustrate this argument and also his statement that drama proceeded by conflict of character through various incidents to the releasing climax, Mr. Fairbairn took the case of the fisherman.

In the well-known tendency of the fisherman to exaggerate, he said, the fisherman's story was the basis of the drama. The conflict was between the fisherman and the fish. Everything in a fisherman's story was leading to a climax, but ultimately the climax did not come. When he got home, the first thing that happened was the exclamation of his wife at the door,
"What a fish!"

Such was the origin of the talk about the big one that just got off the line. Mr. Fairbairn considered, and the final outstretching of the hands in a magnificent gesture to indicate its size.

"Next time you feel inclined to call bairn, "Compliment him on his profound sense of the dramatic."

INDIAN MATERIAL
In dealing with the dramatic material furnished by the coast Indians,
Mr. Fairbairn considered a field like that presented by the Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands was immensely fertile for writers who would only dig in. In the story of the Haida Indians, he said, was to be found those conflicts between man and his surroundings which were the essence of drama.

The speaker illustrated through describing the subject matter of two of his own plays, "Ebb-Tide," which made a big impression in the Dominion Drama Festival in the east, and "The War Drum of Skeedana," in both of which the drama was evoked through the conflicts between white and Indian ways. He pointed out how, with the successive visits to the Charlottes of the Spaniards, the Russians, the English and the Americans, the population of the islands had been decimated from 90, 000 to around 300 in a little over a century, indicating the conflict between the two civilizations.

To Alaska In Twelve-Footer

Capt. C. Kiparth Here From Tacoma in Tiny Craft;
Leaves Sidney To-morrow

Juneau, Alaska, by August in his twelve and a half foot sail boat City of Tacoma, which he constructed himself, is the aim of Capt. Clarence Kiparth of Tacoma, Wash. He will set out tomorrow night from Roberts Bay, near Sidney.

Captain Kiparth, who was in the city to-day, arrived at Roberts Bay a few days ago after making the trip to Alaska in his small boat. The journey is being made solely in the interests of education and he is equipped with a small movie camera and a supply of films with which he will photograph native life of British Columbia and the Indians. He will also study the tides.

His return to Tacoma from the north coast, Captain Kiparth intends to start a lecture tour among schools,
and department stores of his state.
He left Tacoma on May 6.

Sail is the only means of locomotion which the boat possesses and after traveling up the east coast of Vancouver Island, the skipper intends to follow the steamship route up the British Columbia coastline.

"MADE TRIP BEFORE"
He has made a similar trip before, when in 1906, he rowed the entire distance with a companion in an Indian boat on his mission his destination was Ketchikan.

His boat is built of spruce and cedar with a white oak frame. It has a deep keel and he feels it will safely combat the rough waters of the coast channels.

Captain Kiparth has in his possession a number of letters from Indian tribes on the coast granting permission to photograph native life on the reserves. The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau lent considerable aid with data on what he may expect on his trip as far as Cape Scott.

He expects to cover approximately 1,500 miles during the whole trip, and will return by steamer.

Mr. Justice Murphy of the Supreme Court to-day handed down a ruling in a case involving the terms of refusing to open the will of Stephen Jones. The application was made by members of the family, represented by D. Maclean, K.C., represented the Royal Trust Company, an executor of the estate, while Cleve G. White represented the three daughters who were legally classed as minors.

The judge's ruling the estate will be carried on in accordance with the terms laid down by Mr. Jones until the youngest son attain the age of thirty-five years, when it shall be brought up in court for review.

At his recent speech the speaker pointed out how fortunate it was from the point of view of the drama to have Lord Besborough as Governor-General. The success of the Dominion Drama Festival which he instituted had been extraordinary, Mr. Fairbairn affirmed.

INSURANCE MEN DELIVER TALKS

Talks by leading insurance men at the service club luncheon are a feature of Life Insurance Week now in progress. In these talks the stabilizing factor of life insurance is being pointed out, and attention is being drawn to the fact insurance companies have a larger investment in Canadian business and industry than the banks.

To-day at the Kiwanis Club's luncheon, Kenneth Perkins and Fred McGregor were the speakers, while at the Gyo Club yesterday W.
C. Hudson addressed the members for five minutes.

In the future, as citizens fully awoke to the great function of life insurance in tidying them over difficulties, representations as they were known to-day would be impossible.
Mr. Ferguson told the Kiwanians.

Schools Approve Plans For Inter-High Track Meet On June 5

THE SPORTS MIRROR

ON MAY 15, when the major baseball league pruned their staffs to the twenty-three player limit, accommodations on various railroads were filled to capacity with rowdies on their way back to the bushes. But out of the extensive crop of youngsters who found their way up in 1934 there remained a select few who are destined to make their marks in big time.

Of the kids who seem to be sure to stick, three stand out prominently. They are George Stainback, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, Don Heffner, New York Yankees' infielder, and Harry Lavagetto, who is playing second base for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Stainback, the $75,000 boy wonder from the Pacific Coast League already has earned the reputation of having the greatest throwing arm in the National League. The boys are comparing his best running with that of Ty Cobb, and with a batting average hovering around .320, he seems to be a find.

When Don Heffner went up from Baltimore to the Yankees to fill in at second with Red Rolfe to form a green keystone combination, he was classified as "good field, no hit." But the kid has confounded the experts. In addition to fielding brilliantly, he is smiting the onion for a snappy average and, contrary to the Cleveland Indians' manager, Walter Johnson, he gives every indication of continuing his clubbing.

This Lavagetto chap had a big break in his first trip up to the majors from Oakland, in the Pacific Coast loop. Shortly after the season started, Pie Traynor, Pirate third sacker, came down with an ailing arm. To fill in for Pie, Manager George Gibson shut out Tommy Thevenow over from second and put the kid in at the keystone sack.

Since then Harry has been working like a veteran, playing a steady brand of ball in the field, and slugging around .300.

The Boston Red Sox seem to have a monopoly on the classy rookies. Boots Weeling, a shortstop, is said to be the most improved player in the majors by none other than George Herman Ruth. Bucky Walters, another recruit infielder, is catching up with his hitting stride and in a recent game drove in six runs with two homers, a double and a single.

Then the Sox have Julius Solters, big outfield recruit from the International League, who is plastering the apple, and Fritz Ostermaier, pitcher, who, with Grove, Walberg, Weiland, Welch and Piggars to teach him, should develop into an outstanding pitcher.

The White Sox have two good prospects in Zek, and Frenchy Bordagaray. The former is a slugging first baseman of the Dale Alexander type, although he probably is even slower than the Ox on the paths.

The National League has turned up with a trio of young pitchers who may set the loop on fire before the year's over. One is Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs' find, who recently hurled a two-hit win against Brooklyn, and who is on the way to a steady turn on the mound.

Joe Bowman, New York Giants' bright prospect, up again, and the third is bulky Ralph Birkhofer, who has been pitching some classy wins for the Pirates.

Connie Mack bobs up with a pitching phenom in Joe Cascarella, who won his first three starts as a major leaguer, and who is now a regular on that staff that was riddled by sales and trades last fall.

Action of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association officials in selecting Hans Nusselein, German pro, to act as coach of the U.S. Davis Cup squad causes one to wonder why.

Time and again the U.S.T.A. has come out with verbal blarney against amateurs who turn pro. The organization has been subjected to a national open tournament, advocated by Bill Tilden and his travelling troupe, to decide just who is the greatest tennis player in the United States.

And then it has to go and hire Nusselein.

Hans is fully qualified to handle his job. The exponent of backhand attack, who was professionalized in Germany when he was only sixteen just because he accepted a pair of tennis trousers as a prize, has scored more victories over Bill Tilden than any other player has.

But Tilden in the opinion of many is more fitted for the job.

Tilden, however, has been so unfortunate as to incur the ire of the tennis body. He always has been classified as a bad boy, and has been in and out of amateurdom more times than any other player.

If Tilden is subjected to the U.S.T.A. on an ethical matter, there's the Vinnie Richards. This boy is a pro, and a good one, too. He has made the amateur circles, played on Davis Cup squads in 1922-24-25-26, held the U.S. doubles title with Tilden several years, and was pro singles king in 1927-28-30-31.

Vinnie is perfectly qualified to teach others how to play tennis. Perhaps it's a good thing for tennis, this selection. It may prove to be the wedge that will pry apart the U.S. amateur governing body's prejudice against the pros.

Victoria High To Enter Again With Formidable Squad

Great Duels Expected Between Fernwood Boys and University School For Honors

Brentwood Will Be Competitor

Secondary schools of Greater Victoria yesterday evening swung in line for the fifth running of the Y.M.C.A. sponsored inter-high track and field meet, scheduled for Victoria High School grounds on Tuesday, June 5, at an organization meeting in the association.

Featured this year by the return of Victoria High to competition after a lapse in the event last year, the meet promises to rank among the best in the city this season.

Already the Fernwood boys have made their plans for the contests in which they hope to regain the aggregate honors taken by University School for the second time in the 1933 meet. Under the leadership of Dick Surphiss, track captain of the Big V's, the former holders of major honors have lined up a strong list of school champions and stars of last year's meet for the various competitions.

Chuck Copeland, track coach at Brentwood College, will have a very fair squad representing the Totinet institution to pit against the best from the other teams, while University School, led by Doug Peden, will doubtless make a strong effort to retain the laurels.

PLANS ENDORSED At the meeting yesterday, the delegates approved the date and ground, and decided to have all entries filed by 10 o'clock in the morning on Monday, June 4.

Scoring will be run on a 3, 2 and 1 basis for firsts, seconds and thirds, except in the relay when 6, 4 and 2 points will be given to the first three teams.

A slight change was made in the running competition. This year the various schools may enter a contestant for three events, providing only two are in the track division.

Shawnigan Lake School will not be competing. A letter received to-day by Archie McKinnon, physical director at the Y.M.C.A., and leading force in the meet, announced the Lake boys did not participate in track activities and would be unable to participate in the coming meet.

Although not represented at the meeting yesterday, Oak Bay High School is expected to send in a team, while Saanich will also be represented.

BRENTWOOD SQUAD Copeland's team from Brentwood College is expected to be similar to that which ran against the Y.M.C.A. Juniors two weeks ago. It will probably include Newcomb, Williams, Kelly, Kidd, Akin, West, Barrett, Leonard, and Akin and one or two others.

At Victoria High, Coach Wm. Roper is putting several stars of the championship meet through their paces. In addition to Dick Surphiss, sprint winner and captain, he is trying out Lorne McGregor and Doug Haddon for the century and furlong dashes.

McGregor and Art McHaffie are expected to get the call for the quarter mile, while Bill Dale, joint holder with Surphiss of the high school senior championship, Ralph Shapard and Bill Winsay are bidding for the half mile.

"Porky" Andrews and Ralph Shepherd will probably represent Victoria in the 120 yards hurdles, with Ray Simpson and Tom Mabey doing the work in the shot put.

Six are figured among the possibilities for the high jump. They include Andrews, Jack Mason, Harold Lockwood, Ken McDonald, Art McHaffie and Henry Rowe, junior champion.

Sid Gaunt and Art McHaffie are figured sure bets for Victoria's attack on the broad jump.

RELAY TEAM The relay team will be chosen from Ray Simpson, Lorne McGregor, Porky Andrews, Doug Haddon, Dick Surphiss and Ralph Shepherd.

During the history of the inter high meet, University School and Victoria High have won the aggregate honors twice apiece. The strength of the Mount Tolmie squad will not be known until after their meet on Saturday, but they will have to show lots of speed and field ability to overcome the challenge of the Victoria boys in the meet.

While those two schools are expected to furnish the main duel for chief laurels, representatives from other teams will take a lot of beating in various events.

SOCCER GAME ON TO-MORROW

Victoria West and Victoria City Will Engage in Important League Tilt

To-morrow evening on the Heywood Avenue pitch the Victoria West and Victoria City first division teams of the Victoria Coast Football League will engage in an important league fixture.

The championship of the second half may be decided on the match. Play will commence at 6:15 o'clock, with Scotty Angus handling the whistle.

Should the Wests come through with a victory the final game of the half between the Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt will have to be played. If the Thistles win this match they will be second-half champions and will earn the right to meet Esquimalt, first-half champions, in the play-off for the league crown.

However, should Esquimalt win, the Thistles will have to play off with the Wests for the second-half title. If the City win or draw to-morrow's match with the Wests the Thistles will become second-half champs.

The City line up follows: Chalmers, Harper, L. Murray, Smith, Moody, McBay, A. Murray, J. Murray, Sage, Gibson, Holmes, McKinnon, Carmichael, Carr and Magee. Players are asked to meet at the Veterans of France at 5:45.

McLarnin Remains Silent In Defeat

By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, May 29.—Barney Ross stood among the immortals of the ring to-day because of a tireless left hand that might easily claim kinship to class one lightning.

Directed by an agile, cool brain, that left drummed the welterweight crown of the brow of Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, yesterday evening, and made the little Chicago Hebrew the first fighting man ever to claim the lightweight and welterweight championships of the world as his own.

Some 65,000 sat under a starry sky in the Madison Square Garden Bowl on Long Island as the crafty hand wrote the ring history other light-weight masters, Benny Leonard one of them, attempted and failed. They sat, almost silently through fifteen slightly blood-spattered rounds as the Canadian's right with the cobra sting and Ross's left that crackles like a machine-gun, turned the flow of battle this way and that.

SHATTERS JINX Then a tumultuous acclaim went up from that living sea of white faces for the boy who had dared and buried the banishes that so long accompanied the Vancouver Canadian in his personal war against Jewish ringmen.

A sprinkling of hoots and jeers greeted the announcement that McLarnin had swelled to an unbroken line of nine the welterweight rulers deposited in their first title defense. But then the decision of the officials was not unanswering.

One judge voted McLarnin the victor; the other spoke just as strongly for Ross. Without hesitation, referee Eddie Furest cast the decisive vote in favor of the product of Chicago's West side.

Mainly because he was outsped, McLarnin lost the title that took ten years in winning. He had held it for an inactive year. The inactivity seemed to enter into it too, for Jimmy saw more of his punches miss their mark yesterday evening than he had in his last ten fights rolled into one.

He was shooting, however, at a target with the legs of a Percy Williams. He like McLarnin, attacked with a flurry of lefts and rights, then either force an entangling clinch or dance out of danger's way. Jimmy's historic smile of defeat was replaced by a look of grim determination as he sought a dancing, elusive chin to crush with his lethal right. But less than a dozen times could he locate it, and all but the once glancing blows followed.

JIMMY HEARTBROKEN As against the triumphant smile Ross wore, there were tears in Jimmy's eyes as he hurried silently from the ring, shorn of his title. It was unlikely that he wept over the loss of his crown. It seemed more likely Jimmy's heart just overflowed with chagrin because he had been unable to use the heavy ammunition that blasted his earlier path to the pinnacle.

In short, he had been thwarted in a boxing match, and Jimmy is only a man. There were moments of the fifteen rounds when a ripping, tearing Ross gave the Vancouver belter a chance by a look of grim determination and through the twelfth, when the cherubic Canadian blasted ahead like a warship under forced draught in an effort to wipe out the earlier advantage. Jimmy's incessant left had piled up, there were spots that teemed with action.

The hearty lightweight who weighed 138 pounds, stood head to head and traded smashes with his 146-pound foe. But as quickly as the storm blew up, it was equally as quickly it died. Ross, tired and with his teeth less than a dozen times to stand and cheer.

There were no real knockdowns, although in the ninth both bouncers in the resin from the combined effort of being hit and when off balance, Ross had turned as he took a looping right, lost his footing, but bounced up without a count. He immediately let fly a left hook that caused McLarnin, as he ducked, to slip and land on his haunches. Jimmy also leaped up before the knockdown timekeeper could go into action.

BOTH BOYS CUT The left with which Ross whipped his opponent started the blood flowing from Jimmy's nose in the fourth round. A left hook cut a gash near Barney's mouth in the eighth, and from then on he bled freely. In the last half of the fight both were frequently red-smudged as they slugged and slashed spasmodically.

While Barney accepted the congratulations of hundreds and said it was grand fighting McLarnin, but he didn't hurt me. A little old lady sat weeping on a bench near his room. That was Barney's mother. They were tears of joy as she heard word of praise heaped upon the son she didn't want to be a prizefighter. Fifty yards from there, in McLarnin's quarters, there were tears of the other sort. Many edged in to remind Jimmy of the fight ahead, but he hurried into street clothes, unmindful of the consolation, and soon was away alone to a destination none would reveal.

Barney Ross Suspended By N.B.A. For Failure To Fill Texas Contract

New York, May 29.—Edward C. Foster, Providence, R.I., president of the National Boxing Association, announced to-day he had suspended Barney Ross, lightweight and newly-crowned welterweight champion, for failure to honor a contract in Fort Worth, Texas.

The action was demanded by the Texas Boxing Association and followed suspension of Ross in Texas, where Charles H. Poe, Texas administrator of boxing and wrestling laws, suspended Ross Friday.

The suspension will have no effect in New York or Illinois, where decisions of the N.B.A. are not recognized, but will be effective in most other states.

Don Bradman Stars In One-sided Win

Puts on 160 Runs as Touring Australian Cricketers Defeat Middlesex County Eleven By Ten Wickets; Fine Batting in English County Matches

London, May 29.—The touring Australian cricketers defeated the Middlesex County eleven by ten wickets yesterday afternoon and today the match a day ahead of time. Making up for continued wetness under fast bowling the Australians were cheered by the return to form of the formidable Don Bradman. Bradman, who in recent innings has twice been bowled for a duck and an another occasion for five compiled 160 runs, including a six, a five and twenty-seven fours.

Middlesex were dismissed for 258 runs Saturday, while the Australians closed their first innings with 345 runs. Middlesex are all out for 114 runs in their second innings and the Aussies got the needed twenty-nine runs for victory without losing a wicket.

With the exception of Bradman, who had one of his best free-hitting innings, the Aussies were uncomfortable before the county bowling. The first two wickets were disastrously. Capt. W. M. Woodfull and W. H. Popford both being bowled for ducks by J. Smith, young fast bowler.

FULLS HAT TRICK Then after lunch yesterday Henry Enthoven, in his first over pulled the hat trick, dismissing Hans Ebeling, Clarry Grimmett and T. W. Wall. Enthoven wound up with four wickets for twenty-seven runs, just over five runs apiece, and he took two wickets in a row on two occasions.

It was the fifth victory for the Australians in eight matches since their tour began. The other three were all draws.

St. Louis Cards In National Lead

Take Over Baseball Leadership For First Time By Beating Phillies 10 to 0; Jackson's Two Home Runs Gives Giants Pair of Wins Over Pittsburgh

By HERBERT W. BARKER
The banner of St. Louis Cardinals waved high over the National League today. Frankie Frisch's Red Birds clinched a long winning streak, netting twenty victories in their last twenty-six games, by pulling into the lead for the first time this season.

To "Wild Bill" Hallahan, crack southpaw, fell the honor of pitching the Cardinals into first place. He shut out the Phillies, 10 to 0. But to out Pittsburgh Pirates from the top rung the Cardinals needed help and they got it from New York Giants, who turned back the Corsairs twice in a pair of epic pitching duels, 3 to 2 in eleven innings, and 1 to 6. Travis Jackson punched out home runs for the deciding tally in each game.

After the Pirates had counted twice in the tenth, the Giants came back to tie the score and then win out on Jackson's home run in the eleventh. His second home run in the nightcap was the only score of a great duel between Carl Hubbell and Ralph Birkhofer.

GIANTS ARE THIRD
This combination of results gave the Cardinals first place by a one-game margin over the Pirates. The Giants moved into third position when Chicago Cubs were beaten by Boston Braves, 5 to 3. Frey's fine pitching gave Cincinnati an 8 to 1 decision over Brooklyn. Cleveland maintained its narrow lead over New York Yankees in the American League race with a sensational 6 to 5 victory over Philadelphia Athletics. Jimmy Fox's tenth and eleventh home runs gave the A's four runs. Lou Gehrig hit his eleventh and twelfth homers and Babe Ruth, Detroit Tigers' ace, Saltschager contributed one apiece as the Yankees slugged St. Louis Browns into submission, 13 to 9.

Faced by Hank Greenberg, who hit a pair of homers, Detroit Tigers' ace, Lefty Grove out of the box in six innings and beat Boston's Red Sox, 12 to 6. Chicago's seventeen hits gave the White Sox an 11 to 7 verdict over Washington.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
Off on another winning streak, Syracuse Chiefs jumped into fifth place in the International League standings by virtue of their fifth successive victory.

Given excellent pitching by Bobby Coombs, the Chiefs turned back Albany Senators yesterday, 4 to 1, although they made only seven hits off Milligan and Porter.

A three-run rally in the ninth gave Newark a night game decision over Baltimore, 9 to 7. Vince Barton hit his fourteenth home run for Newark and Alexander also contributed one for the Bears and Puccinelli one for Baltimore.

Johnny Wilson and Lefty Michaels battled through ten innings in a fine pitching duel before Rochester could earn a 1 to 0 decision over Buffalo in another night clash. Michaels, pitching for the Red Wings, allowed Buffalo only two hits. Wilson was touched more freely, for nine hits, but was effective in the punches.

NEW WELTERWEIGHT CHAMPION

BARNEY ROSS

ROUND-BY-ROUND ACCOUNT OF McLARNIN-ROSS FIGHT

Ross felt for McLarnin's head carefully with a long left jab and Jimmy backed away. The Canadian ducked under Ross's left hand, missed with a left and right, and backed Barney slowly across the ring. McLarnin dropped a short left hook on Ross's chin and Barney threw caution aside. He ripped into Jimmy with a flurry of right and lefts to the body and then fell back to a cautious crouch.

Ross backed to the ropes, flicking McLarnin's head with lefts, and took two hard left hooks to the head and body. They bounced up, then, and started swinging punches to the head. Jimmy dropped a hard right on Ross's neck and they slugged each other about the head, each with a right hand free, until the bell broke them and sent them to their corners.

ROUND TWO

Ross stabbed at Jimmy's head with his left and the Canadian bobbed underneath with a left hook to the body and a right cross to the chin that made the lightweight blink his eyes. McLarnin crowded the little fellow, roughing him with both hands, driving lefts and rights to the body. He drove Ross into a corner with a swift barrage of body blows but Barney wheeled swiftly, pulled out, and stabbed Jimmy's head with lefts.

McLarnin feinted and smashed a hard right on Barney's jaw. He ferociously slowly increased McLarnin's head and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. A right drove into Barney's body. Ross ripped into McLarnin with both hands, flayed him all the way across the ring, and drew fresh smears of blood from Jimmy's battered face. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

McLarnin bored into Ross with two left hooks to the body, took a half dozen left jabs to the face, then backed. Barney across the ring with two more short lefts to the head. Ross flicked Jimmy's head with a nice left jab and they wrestled a moment in a clinch. McLarnin belted Ross with a right to the chin and merely set him punching mad. Ross swarmed into Jimmy with both hands, hooking lefts to the body, rights to the head, and as McLarnin backed away, hard pressed, he missed a terrific right to the head. Ross whipped after him, shooting three left hooks to the body and a right to the head and the Jimmy, flustered, missed a long right hand aimed for the chin. Barney was up on his toes boxing prettily, stabbing in deadly fashion with his left into McLarnin's face, as the bell

ROUND FOUR

McLarnin ducked, bobbed, wove under a stream of left-hand jabs. A half dozen caught his face but he came up inside with a hard left and right to the body. Jimmy hooked another left hand to the head before Ross, standing up surprisingly well under McLarnin's heavy fire, tied up the welterweight champion in a clinch. As they broke loose, Barney swiftly banged two lefts to the body and he followed McLarnin into the ropes with both hands pumping furiously to the Canadian's head and ribs. McLarnin caught him coming in with a hard right to the head but he couldn't stop the flashy Ross. A right drummed into Ross's body, but he shot back McLarnin's head with a crashing left hook that wobbled the Canadian's legs. McLarnin thundered both hands into Ross's body again but Barney ripped two more left hooks into McLarnin's head. The bell rang and McLarnin went to his corner with blood trickling from his nose.

ROUND FIVE

Fighting more cautiously, McLarnin stood in mid-ring and tried to match right hands with Ross. But Barney had the swifter jab, and Jimmy was forced to block and duck away. Jimmy came back fast with a right that made Barney blink again, but Ross shook off the blow and flashed two rights into Jimmy's head. McLarnin threw a long right into Ross's side and Barney flashed back with both hands to the head, drawing fresh blood from McLarnin's nose.

Ross chased McLarnin across the ring and rocked him with a crushing volley of rights and lefts to the head. Jimmy wobbled and the crowd roared. Jimmy got his guard up and was holding Ross off with a left at the bell.

Blood was still seeping from McLarnin's nostrils as he came out jabbing carefully at the bell. He pecked two lefts into Ross's head, dropped two left hooks on the challenger's chin and promptly was tied in a clinch. As they sparred in mid-ring, Ross hooked his left fiercely to McLarnin's head, drove him into the ropes, and then stepped back as McLarnin's head was caught under the upper strand. The crowd cheered as McLarnin staggered, and Ross stepped right back with a straight right that started a lump under McLarnin's left eye. Floundering uncertainly, his face blood-matted, McLarnin managed to throw two long rights into Ross's body. Barney danced around him, flicking with his left, hooking it to his head, until the bell rang.

ROUND SIX

McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts into Ross's head, and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. A right drove into Barney's body. Ross ripped into McLarnin with both hands, flayed him all the way across the ring, and drew fresh smears of blood from Jimmy's battered face. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

ROUND SEVEN

McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts into Ross's head, and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

ROUND EIGHT

McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts into Ross's head, and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. A right drove into Barney's body. Ross ripped into McLarnin with both hands, flayed him all the way across the ring, and drew fresh smears of blood from Jimmy's battered face. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

ROUND NINE

McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts into Ross's head, and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

ROUND TEN

McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts into Ross's head, and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove his challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross's cutting, lightning-fast left hooks. A right drove into Barney's body. Ross ripped into McLarnin with both hands, flayed him all the way across the ring, and drew fresh smears of blood from Jimmy's battered face. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

They came right out into a clinch, both quite weary, and with Ross freshened for the first time with the old, smelly salt in his corner. McLarnin pushed Ross across the ring, driving one good right to the body. Barney came off the ropes with two thudding left hooks to the chin. A long right high on the temple shook Ross, but he put down his head and tore into McLarnin savagely with both hands, flinging a stream of leather to the Canadian's jaw. McLarnin almost fell from weariness as he missed a left hook and a right cross to the head, and Ross ripped furiously with both hands to the Canadian's body. Jimmy danced in an effort to get the spring back in his legs, and they bounced into each other, swinging long rights to the head that shook them both. They were both wavering slightly at the bell.

They seemed tired as they matched lefts and rights, neither landing way to the ropes. McLarnin's glancing right to the body. Jimmy drove three rights to the body as they came off the ropes but Barney started blood streaming from both hands to McLarnin's nose with a short, stabbing right. There wasn't much on their punches now as they loaded a moment in mid-ring, but it was just a lull before the storm. Back losses, both hands simultaneously in two-fisted volleys to the head. They stood and swapped punches, full smashes, both teetering a bit in the blast. The crowd roared gleefully but the storm blew itself and the leaders fought each other, swapping lefts and rights in half-hearted fashion, both very tired as the gong rang.

McLarnin stabbed the challenger's face with a long left jab and Barney answered with a kind, neither landing effectively. McLarnin glanced a right off Ross's chin and pounded him into the ropes with both hands digging deep. Ross charged back, but he was clear, fell back into another clinch, and Ross held as Jimmy sunk his heavy fists again into the challenger's ribs. Barney started to fight back with McLarnin caught him with another left hook and right cross to the head, and once more Ross held. Blood was seeping now from Ross's lips. Still concentrating on the body, McLarnin drove Ross into the ropes and kept up a drumming fire. Ross staggered under the onslaught, and a left hook to the head just as the gong clanged.

Ross boxed slowly and McLarnin pumped his head with left jabs before he switched to the body with a long left hook and short right. Ross tried to speed up, but McLarnin caught him with a left hook and right cross to the chin. Back came Ross courageously, shooting both hands to punish McLarnin, but McLarnin missed with both hands. McLarnin drove Barney into a corner with a left and right to the head, but Ross savagely pounded his way out of there with a short two-fisted attack inside to McLarnin's head. McLarnin was warned for hitting Ross with a left hook but Barney took matters into his own hands and flailed Jimmy with a short two-fisted rally.

Referee Forbes signalled to the judges that McLarnin had lost the last round because of a low blow. Ross danced out smartly, poking lefts into Jimmy's face and they quickly fell into a slugging match in the centre of the ring. Ross beat McLarnin to the punch with three left hooks to the head, but Jimmy landed one solid left smash on the challenger's chin. They leaped at each other in a clinch, banging each other on the back of the head with both hands. McLarnin speeded up and whipped two crunching left hooks into Barney's chin and Ross held on. He pulled loose quickly, buried both hands in McLarnin's body in a furious exchange, wobbled for a second under a full right smash to the head, and then came back with amazing stamina to punish McLarnin along the ropes. He beat Jimmy consistently to the punch with both hands from then until the bell rang.

McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter fire. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes. Jimmy shifted suddenly to the head and three short, jagged left hooks but Barney stood toe to toe and slugged it out with him. Finally Barney had to hold. The challenger staggered under a crashing right to the side. It was just for a second, though. The challenger flew back furiously with both hands, belting madly at McLarnin's head and sides. McLarnin staggered slightly as he missed a right, and they stood head to head, with a huge crowd yelling deliciously, wobbling and punching up to the finish.

They were so tired they had to hang onto each other for support until help came from the corner.
